FIRE DESTROYS CHICKS, LEVELS COOK RESIDENCE

Walnut Township Property Burns To Ground; Lack Of Water Cited

LOSS MAY BE $10,000

Wind Drives Flames From Outbuilding To Home; Furnishings Lost

Residence of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cook and a nearby outbuilding containing 300 young chickens burned to the ground in Walnut township Saturday at 2:40 a. m.

All of the chickens perished and only a small amount of furniture was saved from the house. Acting Fire Chief Robert Wolf estimated damage at between $8,000 and $10,000.

Cause of the fire was undetermined. Cook said he first noticed the flames on the floor of the outbuilding, a former dwelling which stood directly behind the house. The lower floor of the structure had been converted into a garage while the upper story contained the chickens. Theory that the fire might have started from a chicken brooder appeared discredited, since the flames originated, according to Cook, on the main floor. Two automobiles were in the building, but both were pushed out before the fire damaged them badly.

Wind Spreads Flames

A strong wind spread the flames from the outbuilding to the house, which stood about 20 feet away. Acting Chief Wolf said only the framework of the garage was standing when he arrived with the rural truck. Even then he said he believed he could have saved the house had there been an adequate water supply available. A well stood between the house and the other building, but the heat of the fire prevented firemen from using it. The house contained a complete water system, and Cook said he had tried to put out the fire with a garden hose, but the hose was frozen shut.

Wolf and four neighbors carried a piano and some small pieces of furniture out of the house before it collapsed.

Fred Clark who was returning to Circleville from a meeting in Columbus noticed the fire as he drove along route 23 and called the rural fire truck.

Soldier's Clothes Burn

Mr. and Mrs. Cook's son, Samuel, was called into the Army two weeks ago. All his clothes and personal belongings stored away in his room, were burned.

Saturday's fire was the second severe blaze to occur in the county in the last two weeks. Flames destroyed Valley View night club on Route 23 north of Circleville February 16. An adequate water supply also might have saved much damage there, firemen report.

'JEEP' CRASH FATAL

DAYTON, Feb. 28—When an Army "jeep" or small scout car crashed in Route 40, Staff Sgt. Howard of Ft. Knox, Ky., was injured fatally.

Jap Tanks Cross Into Singapore

THIS photo, among the first depicting the fall of Singapore, shows Jap tanks crossing a temporary bridge leading to the causeway which joined Singapore island with the Malay peninsula. The ability of the Japanese to bring heavy fighting equipment such as this up to the front contributed greatly to the city's quick fall.

RUSSIANS CONTINUE GENERAL ADVANCE

MOSCOW, Feb. 28—Routing of two German divisions on the southern front in a battle in which 7,500 Nazis were killed was announced by the Russian high command today.

Soviet troops were reported lashing savagely at the Germans along the entire battle front and latest reports said that more than 12,000 Germans had been slain, including the 7,500 in the south. The 16th German army corps was still reported trapped in the Staraya Russa district.

A new effort by the 16th Nazi army corps to break out of the Soviet encircling ring was declared to have failed.

The Soviet midnight communiqué said that after stiff engagements the Soviets occupied "further inhabited localities" and that the "enemy sustained heavy losses in material and especially in manpower."

The Tass (Russian) news agency quoted Spanish prisoners as stating the Spanish (blue) division fighting with the Nazis is suffering great losses and is unable to withstand the rigors of the Russian winter.

The prisoners related that in one company of 160 men, 150 were put out of the fight, with 70 frozen, 50 wounded and 30 dead.

According to this account the Spanish losses are causing discipline to break down.

Meanwhile, Russian pressure was reported continuing against the Nazis beyond Kalinin, northwest of Moscow, where Red army cavalry units were fighting their way closer to the Latvian border.

JAPS ANNOUNCE SEA VICTORIES IN WAKE AREA

This dispatch was sent from an enemy country, whose motive in releasing news is likely to be propaganda. Axis claims should be credited only when confirmed by American or Allied sources.

TOKYO, Feb. 28—(By Official Japanese Wireless)—A Japanese naval communiqué claimed today that Nipponese naval forces off Otori island (formerly Wake Island) damaged two enemy cruisers and shot down five planes.

"Naval forces of Otori island, formerly Wake island, located an aircraft carrier, two cruisers and six destroyers at dawn on February 24," the communiqué said.

"Guns of the Otori fortress set fire to a cruiser and naval planes bombed a large cruiser and hit a destroyer. They shot down five enemy planes."

"A Japanese patrol boat was sunk and land installations were slightly damaged. Several Japanese soldiers were killed and wounded."

The Domei (Japanese) news agency claimed Japanese bombers attacked a British cruiser of the Exeter class off Batavia, setting it on fire and putting it out of action.

Charles F. Beery of Chillicothe was fined $5 and costs by Mayor Ben H. Gordon for failing to stop for Route 23 as they drove out of Gold Cliff park.

HIGHWAY PATROL SENDS FIVE INTO CITY COURT

They were Albert E. Karshner, Laureville; Clarence E. Wardell of Williamsport and Valen E. Pottinger, Circleville. They were arrested by H. O. McDams of the Chillicothe highway patrol.

RAID ON FRENCH COASTAL REGION GREAT SUCCESS

"Other Units" Used, London Says Following Surprise Assault On Germans

SIGNIFICANCE IS NOTED

No Attempt Made To Open Up Second Front; Navy Aids In Effort

LONDON, Feb. 28—A successful attack by British parachute troops and other units on the northern coast of France was announced in London today.

An enemy radio location post on the French coast was the objective and apparently was destroyed, according to an admiralty communiqué.

The sensational assault marked the first time in the entire war that British parachute troops have been used on French territory. In this attack they were aided by planes, infantry and by units of the British Navy.

Exactly when the attack was carried out was not revealed, but the communiqué said that the parachute and infantry troops which participated "are being brought back" by the Royal Navy.

This was regarded as indicating the attack occurred last night.

Invasion Hinted

Britain was jubilant over the news of the attack, an assault which seemingly brought closer the day when the United Nations may undertake a full-scale invasion of the European continent to break the Nazi grip.

It was emphasized that the raid was carried out by a "very small and spectacular party" and was

BRITISH ARMY TAKING CHARGE IN BURMA CITY

LONDON, Feb. 28—British army forces have taken over control of Rangoon, scorched, Japanese-threatened capital of Burma, military authorities in London revealed today.

The situation in Burma again must be regarded as "very serious," authorities declared. It was stated there was no reason to doubt a Mandalay report that the Japanese have cut the railroad and highway leading north to Pegu.

This was accepted as an indication that the Japanese "probably" have crossed the Sittang river to the north.

The Sittang river line was the last natural defense barrier between the advancing Japanese and Rangoon.

SENATOR HATCH HURT CRITICALLY IN AUTO CRASH

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Feb. 28—Sedatives were being administered today to U. S. Senator Carl Hatch of New Mexico to relieve extreme pain resulting from a spinal fracture he suffered yesterday in an automobile accident near Willard, N. M.

Senator Hatch, author of the so-called "clean politics" bill, was a passenger in a car which overturned on a curve 80 miles east of Albuquerque.

The condition of Senator Hatch, who was just recovering from an illness which forced him to leave Washington for his home at Clovis for a rest, was described as "serious," but physicians said it was not necessarily critical "unless complications set in."

Raymond Arias, state revenue bureau employe, driver of the car, suffered a possible skull fracture and a leg injury. Both were brought to an Albuquerque hospital.

Siamese Twins Fail to Survive

THE Siamese twin girls (above) born to Mrs. Carmine Picciotti, 25, of New York City, died after 39 hours of life. They were joined from chest to abdomen. Their weight, after a caesarian birth, was nine pounds three ounces.

NAVY ACTS TO END TANKER SINKINGS

By International News Service

The Navy intensified its efforts to combat the menace to shipping along the Atlantic seaboard today as two more American oil tankers fell prey to enemy submarines, with the probable loss of 76 lives.

Since January 14, when the axis u-boats began their daring raids, 26 ships have been acknowledged by the Navy to have been sunk or damaged. Of these vessels 17 were tankers, laden with war-vital oil.

The heavy toll of tankers has increased the probability of gasoline and oil fuel rationing for the eastern states.

Latest victims of the enemy submarine offensive were the 7,451-ton R. P. Resor and the 10,227-ton W. D. Anderson.

The R. P. Resor was torpedoed early Friday 18 miles off Manassquan, N. J., less than two hours' sailing time from New York harbor. An easy target on the moonlight sea, the tanker was staggered by the explosion, which started a spectacular fire.

When last sighted, the R. P. Resor was drifting northward near the spot where the Morro Castle burned with a loss of 124 lives in September, 1934. Only two of the Resor's crew of 43 were known to have been rescued.

The W. D. Anderson was sunk off the Florida coast Sunday night with only one survivor of a crew of 36, the Navy disclosed.

The lone survivor, Frank L. Terry, 23, of Lansford, Pa., told of escaping oil fire by swimming to sea for more than an hour.

"Several of us were talking on the aft deck when suddenly there was an explosion. I went to the starboard side and dived. Just before I hit the water there was a second torpedo explosion—I swam toward the open sea, racing as hard as I could from the spreading fire."

"I was so exhausted I couldn't tell whether I had any legs. I saw a boat, yelled and waved. Somehow they caught sight of me. I damned the Nazis as they pulled me out."

"In spite of my experience I want everybody to know that I'm going back to sea as soon as I'm rested up again."

WPB PUTS BAN ON PISTOL AND SHOTGUN SALES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—The nation's nimrods today faced the disconcerting prospect of resorting to use of a bow and arrow or sling-shot under a WPB order "freezing" stocks of pistols, rifles and shotguns.

The board issued an order, effective immediately, banning sales of the weapons except to governmental agencies, allied governments or lend-lease and requested dealers, jobbers, wholesalers and distributors to submit a complete inventory of their stocks within 45 days.

The order does not apply to second-hand guns, however, and does not prohibit sales by manufacturers to dealers.

The action was described as a "temporary expedient."

"Immediate steps will be taken," the board said, "to determine exactly what weapons can be used for the Army, civilian defense, plant protection, police work and other governmental requirements."

"Weapons not required by these agencies or purposes will be released from the limitations of this order. The order is designed to conserve existing supplies for defense and essential civilian purposes."

WASHINGTON C. H. PUPILS PLAN BIG GARDEN PLOT

WASHINGTON C. H., Feb. 28—Approximately 1,500 pupils in 23 schools in Washington C. H. and Fayette county are planning a 35-acre garden this spring to help provide food for school lunches. The plan has been submitted to the county war board chairman for consideration. It is directed by Mrs. Dorothy Turney, area supervisor for the Federal Works Agency.

United Nations Warships Break Up Java Thrust

Both Sides Suffer Casualties, Communicé From Batavia Hints, But Extent Of Loss Is Not Being Announced

U. S. MEN-OF-WAR, BOMBERS ASSIST

No Landing Attempts Made On Important Isle; Nippon's Force Mighty One

BATAVIA, Feb. 28—Japan's first attempt to invade Java, last remaining Netherlands East Indies stronghold, was defeated today as a powerful Japanese naval squadron fled after a battle in the Java sea.

American and other United Nations sea and air forces that participated in the roaring battle thus emerged victorious, although it was stated that both sides had suffered losses.

A Netherlands Indies high command communiqué said a Japanese convoy strongly escorted by war vessels was retreating northward under the fire of the guns of a United Nations naval squadron.

Previously the Japanese convoy and warships had approached Java's northeast coast.

No Landing Attempts

There were no reports of any actual Japanese landing attempts.

While the communiqué said both sides suffered losses in the battle at sea, there were no details regarding their extent.

The announcement, however, did state that five Japanese planes were shot down while carrying out raids against various points.

The N. E. I. war bulletin said: "On the afternoon of February 27, a strong Japanese fleet which covered a convoy approaching from the north was attacked in the Java sea by an allied squadron."

"In the course of the fighting, which continued after darkness had fallen, losses were sustained by both sides. Their extent is not known since complete records have not yet been received."

"For the same reason no review of the naval action can yet be given."

"Reports received indicate, however, that the convoy, which consisted of several tens of ships, retreated to the north in the course of the battle."

The military portion of the N. E. I. communiqué said that up to 1 p. m. (Batavia time) today there had been no Japanese landings on Java.

Assault Repulsed

This portion of the communiqué also told of an enemy attack on an unspecified outlying N. E. I. possession but said the assault was repulsed. It stated:

"One of our possessions was attacked by greatly superior numbers of enemy forces. The attack (Continued on Page Eight)

RAF HITS MAJOR GERMAN PORTS IN NIGHT RAID

LONDON, Feb. 28—Royal Air Force bombers last night attacked Kiel and Wilhelmshaven as well as other objectives in northwestern Germany, the British air ministry announced today.

British fighting planes attacked airfields in Nazi-occupied territory at the same time, the communiqué said.

Three bombers and one fighter plane were missing "as a result of the offensive patrol" the communiqué announced.

The German battleship Gneisenau, which London claims was damaged in a flight from Brest with two other Nazi warships, is reported to be in drydock at Kiel.

War Bulletins

TOKYO—(By Official Japanese Wireless)—Lieut. Gen. Tatekawa, Japanese ambassador to Moscow, has resigned owing to ill health. It was announced today. He will be replaced by Naotake Sato.

NEW YORK—A new Japanese air raid on Port Moresby, New Guinea, was today reported by the Australian radio, in a broadcast heard by CBS. "A Japanese raid on Port Moresby began this afternoon, and was still in progress when our New Guinea correspondent sent his last report," said the broadcast.

BERLIN—(By Official German Wireless)—German military headquarters announced today that "a number of British parachutists landed last night on the north French coast," and overcame a "weak coastal defense." The invaders withdrew two hours later by sea under pressure of a German counter-attack, said the communiqué.

BELFAST—Taking part in their first public ceremony since arrival here, American expeditionary forces in northern Ireland were today scheduled to parade through Belfast, in celebration of "Warships Week." The troops will be reviewed from the city hall steps by their commander, Maj. Gen. Russell T. Hartle.

CHUNGKING—An American volunteer group communiqué said today that American fighters shot down 20 Japanese planes in aerial combats over Rangoon Thursday. The communiqué said a single American flier missing since Wednesday is believed to have made a forced landing 20 miles from Rangoon.

STATE FAIR DECISION MAY BE MADE MONDAY

COLUMBUS, Feb. 28—A decision on whether there will be a State Fair this year may be reached when the state agriculture board meets in special session Monday to consider the problem. There exists a possibility that the federal government may ask the use of the fairgrounds buildings for wartime purposes.

Walnut And Pickaway Advance To County Tournament Finals

CLOSE JOUSTS THRILL THROUGH A T SEMI-FINAL

Washington Drops Overtime Contest, And Scioto Falls In Final Minute

It's Walnut township and Pickaway township tonight in the finals of one of the most thrilling Pickaway county basketball tournaments in many years. The contenders made their way to the showdown bracket by turning back Washington township, 40-38, in a sensational overtime game, and Scioto, 33-31, in an equally hard-fought contest.

Tonight's schedule includes: 8 o'clock: Washington and Scioto, consolation. 9 o'clock: Ashville and Perry, for reserve championship. 10 o'clock: Walnut and Pickaway, for county championship.

Houdini himself could not have put four more evenly matched basketball teams on the court at Atlanta Friday evening than the quartet of outfits which fought in the semi-finals. There wasn't a thing to choose between the four teams, and the question of the ultimate winners was one for the fates to decide.

More than 800 screaming fans saw every minute of the basketball that was played. Tourney Manager Harold Costlow announced that 618 general admission tickets were sold for the session at a total of $339.55, this number being in addition to season tickets and passes held by basketball squads of all schools in the county.

The Walnut-Washington game was first on the card, and it gave cage fans an indication of what to expect during the remainder of the evening.

Washington Takes Lead Washington grabbed an early lead and at the quarter was ahead 8 to 5. Walnut started hitting in the second period and chalked up 17 points against eight to hold a 22-16 margin as the half time ended.

Paul Brobst, Washington captain, took over at this spot and fired three quick buckets through the hoop to pull the score even at 24-24 in the middle of the third period. Walnut went out in front 29-24 on buckets by Winterhoff and Cook and a free toss by Barr, but goals by Bolender and Rife cut the margin to 29-25 as the period closed.

Calvert hit for a basket and free toss for Walnut to give his team a 32-25 edge a minute after the final session opened, but Rife and Bolender added buckets to tie it at 32. Fouls by McCray gave Walnut a two point lead, but Washington took a 36-34 edge when Bolender hit a free toss and Rife added a charity and a fielder. Two baskets by Perrill put Walnut ahead, 38-36, and Bolender's shot from under the net tied it as the gun cracked.

Walters, Winterhoff On Capital's Splendid Squad

other by Miller and a free toss by Hall gave Pickaway a 27-21 edge, and Timmons came back in the game.

He hit for a bucket and a charity throw, and added another action shot to pull up to 26-28. A Miller goal gave Pickaway a 30-26 edge, but a free toss by Williams and a goal by Beavers cut it to 29-30. Hall's basket made it 32-29, but Dennis scored another action shot to pull up to 32-31.

Only 21 seconds remained to play when Hall was fouled for two shots. He scored the first to make it 33-31, then Pickaway forfeited the second shot to keep possession, taking it out of bounds. When Miller was fouled a few seconds later when shooting, he missed the first toss and Pickaway again took it out of bounds. Three passes took all the remaining time and the game ended.

University's High Scoring Combination One Of State's Best; Records Are Disclosed

Nearly every record but the one used on the phonograph was broken by the Capital University, Columbus, game-winning, basketball-bagging band of cagers, highest scoring team in Ohio, first placers in the Ohio Conference.

Just about every scoring record on the books went hay-wire by the time the Fighting Lutherans wound up their cage activity for the season with a 53-51 victory over Ohio Northern. Among others, a new team total for the season and individual game was set, a new team average established and the individual scoring total raised.

For a true valuation of the team, take a look at the broken records:

(1) The Lutherans this year have caged more victories than any team in Capital University history. Fourteen encounters have been registered on the black side to one on the red. The 1937-38 squad registered 12 wins over a 15-game route.

(2) The won-lost percentage was better this year than in any other of 36 years of intercollegiate basketball. The 1918 team won 10 and lost 2 for the best previous mark. Incidentally, the star of the 1918 team was Fred Bernlohr, Sr., and the regular guard on this year's team was Fred Bernlohr, Jr. The student's father is now faculty supervisor of athletics; his uncle, William, is coach of Basketball and director of athletics.

(3) In '38 a new record was set for average points per game at 48 each. This year's squad wound up the season with 61.7 per contest.

(4) The record-setting team of four years back rang up a total of 720 points for the season, a new record. This year's mark-smashing ensemble assembled 925 points.

(5) Highest score for one game was set in '38 with 68 points against Ohio Northern. Ashland was victimized with 85 tallies this year.

(6) This is the first year in basketball history that all the first five men have totalled more than 100 points each. Center Bob Geist led the parade with 241, followed

SOX TO RETAIN WILLIAMS FOR ANOTHER YEAR

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 28 — Informed that he will do his battling with a baseball but instead of a bayonet as he had expected, Ted Williams today commented laconically and prepared to join the Boston Red Sox at Sarasota, Fla.

He said that the matter of his draft deferment had been entirely up to the draft board—that he hadn't applied for any deferment. He had already had wind of the fact that he was ripe for deferment, however, and has signed a contract with the Red Sox.

Williams wasn't discussing contract terms, but it was reliably reported that he would receive between $25,000 and $30,000 for his fence-busting activities this year. His .406 batting average last year topped both leagues, so he would be easily worth that, it has pointed out.

The slim, 23-year-old Williams was formerly classified in I-A, subject to immediate call, and had long been expecting to shoulder a gun. An appeal was instituted in his behalf, however, when it was learned that he was the sole support of his mother.

The mother, Mrs. Samuel Williams, lives at San Diego, Cal., and Ted has been contributing $5,000 a year toward her support, according to reports. The appeal was carried to an appeal board and then to President Roosevelt himself before Williams' reclassification was allowed.

BELLEFONTAINE TOPS TIGERS IN 44 TO 29 FRAY

Home Team Too Torrid For Red And Black; Season Ends In Loss

Circleville high Tigers couldn't match the brilliant passing and the hot shooting of the Bellefontaine varsity quintet Friday evening, so fell 44-29 in the regular season's finale. The Red and Black will participate in the Central district tournament next week end at Delaware, the drawing for which was taking place Saturday.

The Tigers rode 90 miles to take on the Bellefontaine lads, and they enjoyed the trip, but the home team was too torrid for the locals.

Bellefontaine grabbed an eight point lead at the start, the quarter ending 10-5. Halftime found the Tigers trailing 11 to 23, and the third period was 18-34.

Detrich and Buckenroth were Bellefontaine's stars, getting 17 and 13 points, respectively. Jim Carr hit for nine to pace the Tigers.

Red and Black reserves kept company with the varsity by absorbing a 45-16 shellacking.

The Tiger varsity finished its season with nine victories and 11 defeats.

WILSON HAS HIS CUBS FIGHTING FOR PLACES

AVAILON, Cal., Feb. 28—Manager Jimmy Wilson, the Simon Legree of the Chicago Cubs' baseball team, today watched his horsehide and hickory soldiers plunge through individual all-out efforts to win places on the starting line-up of their first intracub game scheduled for next Tuesday on Catalina Island.

Eddie Waitkus brought from the Tulsa farm this year, is showing Babe Dahlgren good competition for the first sack; Cy Block, the Brooklyn banger, is contesting Lou Stringer's right to second and Lenny Merulo and Bob Sturgeon are fighting it out for short. # Methodists Start Home Visitation Program March 1; Plan State-Wide

Rev. Neil Peterson One Of 108 Receiving Instructions

Circleville Methodist church will be among those from throughout Ohio to participate in a Home Visitation program. The program will open March 1 and will close Palm Sunday, March 28.

Purpose of the home visitation program is to win additional members into Methodist congregations. Circleville will be the center from which ministers of this area will work, with churches in the area including Williamsport, Amanda, Clarkburg, Ashville, South Bloomfield and Circleville.

The Rev. Neil Peterson is one of the 108 ministers from Ohio who were receiving instructions Saturday on how the campaign should be conducted. The school of instruction, being held in Columbus, is being directed by Bishop H. Lester Smith of Cincinnati and Dr. Guy Black of Nashville, Tenn.

Following the school in Columbus, the Rev. Mr. Peterson will come back to Circleville to instruct others of this area on the program.

By home visits, those sponsoring the program believe they may increase membership in all Methodist churches of the state.

The Parables by the Sea

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Matt. 13; Mark 4:1-34; Luke 8:1-18

Jesus sat on the seashore, and when great multitudes gathered on the shore, He entered a boat and, sitting therein, gave them His message in stories or parables.

Jesus first parable was of the man who sowed his seed in the field, where some fell on stony ground, some were eaten by fowls, and some took root and grew.

In another parable Jesus likened the kingdom of heaven to a grain of mustard seed, which, being the tiniest of seeds, when grown became a great tree.

In a third parable Jesus likened "the kingdom of heaven to leaven," which when hidden in three measures of meal, leavened the whole.

(GOLDEN TEXT—John 7:46)

The Parables by the Sea

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for March 1 is Matthew 13; Mark 4:1-34; Luke 8:1-18, the Golden Text being John 7:46, "Never man so spoke.")

A PARABLE is a story used to illustrate a certain point or moral. It is a story in which the incident related never happened, yet it might have happened. Thus is a parable distinguished from a fable, which is a story told about something which could not have happened.

Jesus talked to the multitude in parables, as mothers tell little stories to their children to make certain truths clear to them. In our story today, Jesus sat by the seashore, and when the crowd found him there, He entered a boat, and sitting in the boat, with the interested multitude on the shore, He talked to them, telling His truths in parables.

The first story told by our Lord was about a man who went into his field to sow grain. Some of the seeds, said Jesus, fell by the wayside and fowls ate them; some fell on stony places where there was not enough earth for them to grow in, and they died; some fell among weeds and thorns which choked them; but others fell into good ground and grew and made a good harvest.

The disciples asked Jesus why He talked in parables, and He answered: "It is given to you to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it is not given." He then explained to them that to some persons the truths He told would be like seeds dropped by the wayside, the evil things of life would catch them up ere they could sprout. To some others the truths could not prosper because there was no soil in the soul to nurture them. When trouble or persecution came, the truth in their hearts would perish.

"The 'deceitfulness of riches,'" the material things of the world, would distract others, these being the weeds that would choke out the truth in some hearts. But to those who, like the disciples, had pure understanding hearts, the word would multiply and bear fruit "some an hundredfold, some sixty, some thirty."

"The kingdom of heaven" is like a grain of mustard seed, said Jesus. It is one of the tiniest of seeds, but becomes a great herb, and later "a tree, so that the birds of the air come and lodge in the branches thereof."

The Kingdom of Heaven, was also likened to leaven which a woman took and hid in three measures of meal, and the whole was leavened. Anyone who has seen the effect of yeast on a large quantity of bread mixture, can appreciate this parable.

The Kingdom of Heaven is also like a treasure hid in a field, "the which when a man hath found, he hideth and for joy thereof goeth and selleth all that he hath, and buyeth that field."

Burying Their Treasures

In olden times men who had to leave home hid their treasures in holes in the earth. Sometimes they died while away, and the treasure could not be located. A law was passed that when it was found it should belong to the owner of the land. God's truth is likened to this treasure which when a man found, he sold everything else he had to buy it. How much more is this truth worth to men than earthly treasure!

A similar parable is the one told about the man who found the pearl of great price, and sold his all to purchase it.

The last parable in this 13th chapter of Matthew, tells of the fishers who cast their nets and drew up many fish of all kinds, both good and bad. The sorters on the shore threw away the inedible varieties and saved the good. "So shall it be at the end of the world: the angels shall come forth, and sever the wicked from the just," said Jesus.

When Jesus went to his old home and entered into the synagogue to preach, his old neighbors heard Him with amazement, saying, "Is not this the carpenter's son...? Whence then hath this man all these things?" And they were offended with Him. Jesus said, "A prophet is not without honor, save in his own country, and in his own house, and He refrained from doing miracles in Nazareth because of their lack of faith.

Let us look into our own hearts. Is there within us the soil in which will grow and blossom truth, righteousness and love, such as the world needs in its present unhappy state? Can we follow the Master through persecution and suffering, striving always to live for His glory—for "Truth and Righteousness?"

LUTHER LEAGUE BOARD TO PLAN SPRING SESSION

Executive board of the Hocking and Scioto Valley Federation of Luther Leagues will plan the federation's thirty-eighth semi-annual convention and spring rally when it meets at the St. Paul Lutheran church near Ashville Monday night at 8 p. m.

Officers of the executive board are: Ned Dresbach, Circleville, president; William Barnhart, Marcy, vice-president; Betty Bachman, Canal Winchester, secretary and Orland Hines, Lockbourne, treasurer.

Spring rally for the federation will be held April 26 in Lancaster. Also during the board meeting, the federation will make plans for a skating party to be held sometime in March.

The April rally will be the federation's first big meeting of the year and will see an estimated 200 young people from nine communities gathered together. Music, devotions and addresses will feature the afternoon's program, with a banquet planned for the evening.

Churches of the federation include those at Marcy, St. Paul, Lockbourne, Groveport, Lithopolis, Lancaster, Circleville, Ashville and Canal Winchester.

The spring rally last year was held at the Lockbourne church.

U. B. CHURCH TO START ITS REVIVAL SERVICES

Revival services will begin Sunday evening at the First United Brethren church with the pastor, the Rev. A. N. Gruesser, in charge and the church choir furnishing the music.

Sermon topic for the first service will be "Opportunity, Responsibility, Accountability."

The Rev. Mr. Gruesser's sermon topic Sunday morning will be "The Consciousness of Sin" and the choir, under the direction of Charles Kirkpatrick, will sing "Seek Ye The Lord" by J. Varley Roberts.

Farming in Southern Ohio

By THOMAS E. BEERY

A Double Duty Work Bench

Since many of the readers of newspapers that carry this column live in cities on the west and east coasts, I thought that the suggestion about how to make a work bench in the cellar, so that it would also function as an air raid shelter, would be of interest and value at this time. All you need to do is to use four by fours for the upright posts; brace them each way with two by fours; or better with four by fours, morticed into the cross members of the same size; and then make the table top out of two by fours, laid edge-wise, and you have a very good air raid shelter, under which the family can crawl in time of an air raid, and even if your house is blown to pieces above you, you will be protected from falling material, and be comparatively safe.

If you want to go a step farther and make doubly sure that you will be protected against debris thrown horizontally, make sides and ends out of two by fours, and hinge them to the top of the work bench, so that they can be dropped down, when they are needed. With this additional protection, you will be safe.

There are still many complacent people in our great nation, who haven't yet realized the hazard of an air raid, that may and probably will come at any time, with an enemy on each side of us, and the bombing season, "just around the corner," as one man of national importance would express it. (You can guess the name of this man.)

We don't want to alarm you, but if you live in a city like Columbus or Cincinnati, where we have hundreds of readers, or on farms near them, you can expect an air raid, for the centers of the defense areas would be useful targets for our enemies.

This is a timely suggestion, but if you do nothing about it, it will be of little or no value to us. We hope you act on it at once, for it would be a wise thing for you to protect the good wife, and the sweet little children, that may have come to bless your home.

Carry a Hammer

That's a suggestion that has come to me many times this winter, as I do the morning work. If I had a hammer swinging in the place on my overalls made for it, and a few nails in my pockets, and I see a board that needs nailing on, or the end of a hog trough getting loose, or a pen about to fall down, it takes but a minute to drive a few nails. I haven't lost very much time, and I have prevented losing a lot of time later, in many cases.

Here is an illustration, in point, as a lawyer would express it. I noticed the staple loose on the hump that holds a door shut through which I go three times a day, to water, feed and bed some stock hogs. "I must fix that," I thought many times, but I didn't get time to do it, and one day most of the pigs got out and Mrs. Berry and I chased them for an hour getting them back, and it could have been prevented by pulling the staple and driving it again a job that could have been done in a minute or less time.

Here is another illustration: One end of the pen enclosing three meat hogs, about ready to butcher, was a little loose, and I thought, "I must put a few more nails in that post or better still, wire the end of the pen to the post, so as to be sure it won't get loose."

I was busy, or at least I thought I was busy, and didn't do it. Three days went by and one evening, when I was tired and "a little off my guard," as a soldier would express it, I leaped far over the pen to sleep the hogs, and it "Cut loose" and I went headlong into the pen with a bucket of very good slop, and my best suit of clothes under my overall suit. I won't attempt to put into print, some of my reactions to this experience, for I don't believe it would look very well in print.

"And that could have been prevented by driving one or two nails, or by just wrapping a piece of baling wire around the end of the pen and the corner post in the barn," I thought.

I am reminded now of how a very successful farmer selected the farm partners for his farms. He inspected the man and his wife, and got all the information he could about them, and then he looked around to see if the man kept the loose boards nailed on the farm buildings and fences, and if he kept the gates swinging. Even if he had all of the requirements of a good farmer, and yet didn't do the little things that keep a farm from getting a "rented appearance," he had ing more to do with him. Wasn't he a wise landlord?

"Pure Bred Milking Shorthorns"

That's what I recently read on a very large attractive roadside sign, and just below it, "Howard Cannon, Leesburg, R. F. D. 1." I stopped to meet the man who was so aggressive in his business, and who realized the value of using a good substantial, well made sign to advertise his livestock.

I found a young man and a neat little home maker, who established their home about a year ago, and both were very enthusiastic about farming and especially about pure bred milking Shorthorns. It was refreshing, and stimulating, and encouraging, to talk with them, for I had been on several farms that day, where discouragement was so evident that you could almost feel it, even though little was said about it. "Farming has been so bad that it will take us two years or longer to even dig out, some of these men had admitted, when I questioned them, but they were "game" and did very little complaining.

"We are just getting a good start in this pure bred milking Shorthorn business," Howard said, when I asked him to tell me about the herd. "We have two bulls to sell now about ten months old, but we have no heifers or cows. We have to keep most of them for additions to the herd," he explained. Then he told me about some of the production records; One of his best cows gave 7200 pounds of 4.2 per cent milk in her lactation period of ten months and one week. How is that for a record? This cow will weigh 1200 pounds and her last calf weighed almost 100 pounds, when it was born.

The Cannons are tenant farmers who operate the Wesley Roads farm and milk some of his high producing, pure bred Jersey cows, in addition to the Shorthorns.

The cows were stabled in the basement of what I think is the coldest barn I have ever been in. It is large and has so many drafts, that it almost "freezes the marrow in your bones," on a cold day. I suggested building some temporary partitions, in this large basement or just hanging up some burlap curtains as partitions, to check the drafts. This basement, like several other basements of barns in southern Ohio, in which I have been in, would be much warmer, by just checking the drafts.

We take this opportunity to complement Mr. Roads on finding tenants of the high class of the Cannons. He'll make money and so will they, for they know how to farm; they have a fondness for domestic animals; and they are honest, honorable people, who come from our best southern Ohio families.

Continued success to you, good people; and may you have many years of happy farm life together.

MEN'S CHOICE

A PHRASE from the last war is now being heard again, applying to war-time duty. It is short and not sweet. It says, "Work or Fight." And there isn't likely to be any mistake about its meaning.

It applies broadly to our whole available man-power. It recognizes that this is literally a struggle for existence, to our nation as well as the other democracies. It stops coddling and jollyng and temporizing in a supreme emergency. It calls upon our whole man-power to play a manly part and contribute without reservation to our war effort. It recognizes two main branches of service, military and industrial. It insists on the same loyalty in war production work that is taken as a matter of course in the army and navy.

It requires that men in war work give whatever time is needed, regardless of peace-time standards and union rules, to production of weapons and materials for the fighting men.

TURKEY ON THE SPOT

HOW Turkey has fallen from its once lofty estate! Some centuries ago the Turks were the terror of Europe. They had conquered the Balkans and half of Hungary, and twice besieged Vienna. Now the best they hope to accomplish is to keep out of the war.

That the Turks are relatively so insignificant is not the fault of the present government. Turkey was brought low by centuries of incapable sultans. Under them the country earned the name of "the sick man of Europe," whose death the neighbors eagerly awaited in order to divide his possessions. Under Mustafa Kemal and his successor the present-day ruler, Ismet Inonu, Turkey has risen from this low state.

It is a well managed small nation, which hopes to keep out of the war. Other small countries of Europe have had the same hope, with no luck. But what a come-down from the days when the Turks dictated to Europe!

HORN-TOOTING

"DON'T blow that horn!" So a law in Memphis has run for the past year. At the same time automobile fatalities have dropped 57 percent. Probably this is more than mere coincidence.

It is certainly a regulation which we can all commend. How many times the third or fourth car in line behind a red light sounds off, presumably because the

OUR PACIFIC STRATEGY

WASHINGTON—Anyone with a map—and the Japanese have good maps—can figure out future U. S. offensive strategy against the would-be rulers of the Pacific.

1. To strike at the heart of Japan with bombing planes via Alaska and Siberia.

2. To use China to cut Japan's long supply line extending down below the equator to Java.

Regarding the latter strategy, the Japanese, if not careful will get themselves in the same difficult and extended position of ourselves and the British—sending supplies thousands of miles to battle fronts half way round the world.

That is why U. S. munitions are being rushed to China by air, instead of by the old Burma Road, so that China may be used as a base against the extended Japanese supply line. This, however, will take time. For supplies by transport planes can only go in dribbles.

Regarding the first strategy—bombing attacks via Siberia—the Russians have made their position quite clear to us, and both Roosevelt and Churchill agree with them. They point out:

1. Vladivostok is surrounded on two sides by Japanese, could be cut off rather quickly, if used as a bombing base.

2. The Russians have sent some of their best troops and planes from Siberia to Moscow.

3. Russia will join us in any real bomber attack against Japan, but it has to be a sustained and continued attack lasting for months.

In other words, if we are merely going to send a few bombers over Japan, then say to Moscow: "Gentlemen, we have run out of bombers, you carry on alone," then the Russians aren't at all interested. They want to see a continuous supply route, a row of good Alaskan bases, with a lot of bombers in reserve. Then they will start blowing up Tokyo.

SLOW WORK IN ALASKA

In regard to our present lack of Alaskan bases, here is some unwritten history which is significant. In March, 1940, the House military subcommittee on appropriations killed a War Department appropriation of $14,000,000 for a certain base in Alaska.

When Governor Gruening of Alaska, who was then in Washington, read about it next morning, he hit the ceiling. With General Marshall he hot-footed it to the Capitol, almost got down on their knees to Representatives Ross Collins of Mississippi, Lane Powers of New Jersey, Francis Case driver thinks himself too important to be delayed, even for a moment! Still worse is the practice of sitting in the car at night, and using the horn as a doorbell to call the awaited guest from his or her home.

Such abuses make people within ear-shot wish that cars were made without horns. So long live Memphis, and may all other towns follow her good example.

the whole thing. Belongs there anyway.

All of our business, all of our daily life is based on trust of the other man. Destroy that trust and business and social life comes to an abrupt halt. If I believed what that scientist said I could not look any man or woman in the eye without wondering whether he or she should be included in the crooked 80 percent.

Chatted with some of the garage men, who are wondering what is to become of their business soon. Many of the cars will die off the highways at the deadline for present license tags and others will disappear when the time comes in mid-summer for payment of federal use tax. Dangerous times will take others off the streets and highways. May be we will not need those parking meters after all. Certainly the parking problem six months from now will not be what it is now. And here's a hint to dad—that kid with his jump starts, snappy curves and speedy driving is knocking a lot of rubber off your tires. I see it almost every day.

And did hear the man in charge declare that 80 percent of the men and women handling money for others are thieves. Said he could prove the statement. And despite all his science I just do not believe him. I do hope that I never lose faith in 80 percent of my friends and acquaintances. Wouldn't that be terrible? Thought and thought about that scientist's statement and it kept me awake a large part of one night until I finally came to my senses and said I tell with

Typhus Fever, Partner of War, Is Spread by Lice

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

MOST United States physicians have never seen a case of typhus fever. Yet it has been here, as witness one of the great American medical classics, Dr. Nathan Smith's "Practical Essay on Typhus Fever" published in 1824.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Typhus fever hung on in Europe, here and there, continually, but American plumbing—the bathtub, the laundry—banished it from our shores.

Typhus fever should not be confused with typhoid fever. Typhoid fever is spread by contaminated water and affects the intestines, which typhus does not. Typhus is spread by the louse.

Whenever you get wars, migrations, famine, destruction and lack of personal cleanliness, you get typhus.

In Europe it occurred in the French armies during Napoleon's retreat from Moscow and after World War I in 1915, the Serbian and Austrian armies were so devastated with it, that it practically stopped hostilities.

Epidemic in Russia

After the war one of the worst epidemics in history occurred in revolution-ridden, post-war Russia.

Typhus is called war fever, ship fever, jail fever, prison fever, camp fever and hospital fever. The French doctor, Charles Nicolle, working in Tunis, discovered how the disease was spread. He noticed that patients with typhus fever would enter the hospital, and after a bath and change of clothing, could be placed side by side with the other patients without spreading the infection.

The only cases of typhus that developed in the hospital were those of the attendants who undressed and bathed the patients on admission. Examining the clothing of these patients, mostly Arabs, Nicolle found them alive with lice. He put some of these lice on monkeys and the monkeys promptly developed typhus fever.

So wherever we have armies crowded into inadequate quarters, without regard for sanitation and vermin, we are likely to have

SYNOPSIS
ANETTE WINSLOW, 17, beautiful, and aspiring to fame on the stage, meets LAURENCE PEYTON, top-ranking actor, and AUGUST DRAKE, Peyton's leading lady. Larry in turn introduces her to LOIS LYNDON, and her brother, JIMMY.

CHAPTER SIX
LARRY DID not call for Anette at 10 o'clock the following morning, but he telephoned. Listening to a voice so befogged with sleep it seemed that of a stranger, the girl was directed, "Hop into a cab and meet me in 30 minutes at the theater. Stage entrance." The receiver clicked and the fuzzy voice was gone.

The alley was even more drab in cloudy daylight than Anette remembered it from the night Walter had taken her backstage. Cold grit. Scraps of paper. A trash barrel. A starved looking cat. Scarcely the place for a rendezvous, she thought wryly.

Larry was late. At first she didn't mind, because she felt certain he would turn the corner any second and come toward her with that swinging athletic stride she liked so well. When he hadn't after 20 minutes, she opened the stage door and peeped into an atmosphere so dark and tomblike she hastened to get back into the less gloomy alley.

She began to shake both with cold and nervous tension. A cinder blew into her eye. A messenger boy on a bicycle pedaled through slush and splattered her hose. Quickly, born anger rose within her and she sped up the narrow, dirty cement chasm toward busy Dearborn street, only to turn immediately and saunter back toward the stage entrance. At 11:30 her smoldering feelings again flared and she raced toward the street the second time, this time making no reversal in her plans.

When she collided with a tall man, she knew it was Larry. But she didn't look at him. Neither did she stop, not until he grabbed her arm and twirled her in the direction of the stage door. She found herself taking little running steps to keep up with him.

"Don't say a word for at least five minutes, because I'm good and sore. You may as well learn right now," he warned, "never to talk to me when I'm sore."

The heels of Anette's alligator pumps grated against the sidewalk as she came to an abrupt stop, and her chin protruded so far she scarcely could utter her denunciation. "You! Always you! So you're angry, are you? Well, what do you think I am?"

For an instant the handsome leading man just stared. Then he frowned and tugged at her arm. "Oh, don't be so silly. Come on." He hustled her through the heavy door, led her carefully through the darkness, then released her and strode on alone, down the musty-smelling corridor toward his dressing room.

Anette tagged along after him. Like a meek Chinese wife, she thought, and suddenly felt her fierce turbulence melting into amusement. All the same, she still was resentful enough to inquire the instant they entered his room, "Why is it silly to be angry? I'd be a fool if I were not, after a 60-minute wait in a dingy, freezing alley." She sat down, in the same straight-backed chair in which August had sat and railed that first night. "That's what I am anyway, a fool!"

"Stop being dramatic! I've just come from a siege with August Drake. I can't take another one so soon." He leaned near the mirror and touched one eyebrow with a moistened forefinger. A gray hair caught his eye. He picked up a pair of tweezers and yanked it out viciously. "Besides, I told you to keep quiet for a few minutes."

"Why should I?" Anette snapped like an ill-bred child. "I don't consider it a sanctified moment simply because you've decided you don't want to talk for a while." Her shoulders were high and squared with belligerence.

"Don't get smart!" he yelled, "simply because I've fallen in love with you." That shouted statement seemed to remind Larry of his affection. Miraculously it erased his quarrelsome mood. No longer nipping, his eyes turned soft and caressed her. Anette felt her squared shoulders easing back into place and that feeling of floating or melting or sinking—whatever the feeling was, so unexplainable, but so sweet—took control of her. Her fingers, gripping the sides of the chair seat, relaxed as Larry stepped to her and pulled her up into his arms.

He whispered, "I'm so in love with you, Anette, that it makes me shiver." Slowly, lingeringly, he began kissing her cheek.

Just then someone tapped at the door and still another change came over Larry. A look of extreme apprehension shot across his face. Yet he opened the door without delay.

Standing there was the old character actor who played August's father. "Oh, I'm sorry, Mr. Peyton," he said after a quick look about the room. "You see, I heard a woman's voice so I just assumed it was Miss Drake." He continued hesitantly, "I wanted very much to see her about something—something important."

Laurence Peyton told him with a complete lack of delicacy, "Well, if it is money you're after again, you couldn't have picked a worse day. She's buying hats at Claudia's." He began closing the door gradually. Nevertheless it amounted to such a persuasive hint that the older actor turned away.

"I'll say she's buying hats!" Larry pushed the door shut with a bang. "Buying every one I told her not to. I don't know why she asked me to go in the first place."

"Probably just to see you jump. Never," jeered Anette, "have I seen a man so slow to apron strings?"

"I am not!" Larry exploded.

"Oh yes you are! Why didn't you tell her you had an appointment?" Laurence Peyton gave a disgusted snort. "I did. But that doesn't mean anything to August Drake. I was slipping out of the hotel to meet you," he related, with emphatic gestures of both hands, "when in the rapid, fresh from Lincoln park—she walks three miles every morning for her hips."

He ceased talking and a dark red shade tinted his face as he took notice of Anette's expression. In self-defense he explained, "It is a matter of diplomacy to get along with August."

"Oh, yes. Yes, indeed!" ridiculed the girl. "To the point of slipping of the hotel to meet me." Her topaz eyes were suddenly as gritty as sandstones and she began pulling on fawn-colored suede gloves with energetic tugs that threatened to rip them. "Slipping out!" she said again in a voice of extreme contempt.

With a peevish jab Peyton ran stiff fingers through his dark hair, but instantly recovered his usual vanity and hastened to comb it back into waves of perfection. He caught Anette's gaze on his reflection and proffered, "I didn't want her to know what I was up to."

"Well, what are you up to?" the girl demanded. She was standing back of his chair.

"You'll know eventually, but first let me get this out of my system. I consider myself totally insane to let a young, untalented nobody such as you treat me the way you're treating me." He turned and looked up into her stormy face.

"Why don't you behave more like the beautiful-faced, white-skinned angel you appear to be?" He pulled back the cuff of her glove and kissed the inside of her wrist. "I've thought about you every second since last night. I'm in love with you, madly in love with you, and you don't even seem to appreciate the fact." An unbelievable thought struck him. "Good Lord, is it possible you don't love me?"

"Every woman loves Laurence Peyton, including me." Her tone was flippant, yet the man was pleased.

Instantly he was on his feet and had snatched her into his arms. Across his shoulder she saw her own face in the makeup mirror and shut her eyes tightly to erase that vision of utter submission. Oh, golly, golly, she pleaded silently, don't ever let him catch that snappy love look on my face. Don't let him know my heart is beating so hard it is apt to bounce the spots off my leopard coat. Don't let him know I've kept a scrapbook about him since grammar school days. Please, she was thinking, as his lips descended on hers, help me to cover my real feelings with a smart manner, because otherwise I'll never have a chance.

Abruptly, Larry startled her by saying, "Sit here!" He slung a makeup towel about her neck and began pawing through a pile of tubes and boxes on the shelf. "Shut your eyes," he commanded. "Squint them." The girl felt his fingers pinching at the outer corners of her eyes and heard him chuckle. "Just imagine all this trouble to put in wrinkles. Usually it's work to keep them out." He set them with grease paint and powder. His fingers slid beneath her lower lashes. Next he put a rather dead shade of paste rouge on her mouth and finally pulled her coal black curls into a cramped, not very attractive knot, at the back of her head. After several more minutes, he said, "Take a look now."

There she was, someone with eyes shadowed and slightly puckered at the outer corners, a disconsolate mouth and an old-maidish hair-do. "I look at least 25. Oh, Larry," she asked rapturously, "are we going somewhere to see about a part in a play?"

"We're going somewhere to get married." He laughed aloud and grabbed her hand. "We're going to elope. Crown Point, Ind."

There was no knock on the door this time. It simply opened, and in walked August Drake.

Fifty Women Hear Talk On 'Food For Freedom'

More than 50 women gathered at Memorial hall Friday for the fine meeting sponsored by Mrs. Fannie M. Brooks, AAA county fieldwoman, and heard talks on the "Food for Freedom" program. Dale Williams of the state AAA committee was guest speaker and discussed the subject from the viewpoint of "Food for Victory," as he said "freedom is not possible without victory." He urged that land be used to raise foods that are most necessary to good health including vegetables, fruit, meat, poultry, eggs, butter and milk, and these things not only for ourselves, but for others. "This country cannot exist on an isolationist program," he said, "we must share with others of the world and may have to feed them all."

He contrasted the food supplies of this war with those of World War 1, telling of the great stores of wheat and corn on hand. He urged the acceptance of leadership for proper balance of production in order to provide good food for all at reasonable prices. While food for victory will not win the war, it cannot be won without it. Women, older men and children will have to help produce food, according to Mr. Williams, more and more of the work on farms falling to the women.

He advised those in towns and cities who had raised gardens to do so again and to increase their production, but asked inexperienced people not to undertake them, but to leave the seeds for others. He advised canning of every bit of surplus food, and urged urban and country women to get together to this end, to build stocks of foods for use and for reserves for the future.

Mrs. Brooks spoke briefly in opening the meeting, announcing its purpose to be the promotion of good relationship between the city and county women. Miss Ethel Coseo of the Farm Security office discussed food from the nutritional angle. She gave a setup of foods for proper balance in diet, showing a chart of protective foods for use each day with great emphasis placed on the value of milk, especially for growing children.

Several musical numbers were interspersed in the program. Mrs. Dwight Rector and Mrs. Lawrence Spencer of Saltcreek township were heard in a piano duet, "Flash and Dash." Mrs.

Miss Jeanette Hockman entertained members of the Les Amies class on Tuesday evening. On arrival each guest was required to put on a patriotic stunt, with first prize awarded to Dorothy Kohler and second prize to Margaret Chilcote.

During the business session new officers were elected as follows: Katherine Whisler, president; Grace Dumm, vice president; Helen De Long, secretary-treasurer.

Following the business meeting, Patty Owens conducted a devotional program.

SUPERINTENDENT REVIEWS SPEECH OF ROTARY HEAD

In assembly Thursday morning, Superintendent Frank Fischer reviewed the address which Tom Davis, international president of Rotary delivered at the Rotary convention in Dayton last Tuesday.

Mr. Fischer first told his listeners that three weeks ago all Rotary clubs were instructed to supply one planned program with one on China. At the time no one understood the reason for this request. It was not until during the recent convention that Rotarians learned from Mr. Davis that the request had come from President Roosevelt. The reason for it was that at that time China was on the brink of signing a separate peace with Japan. Because of efforts such as Rotary and other organizations made the catastrophe was averted.

Mr. Fischer then said that the picture which Mr. Davis painted of the dire conditions in foreign countries far exceeded anything his listeners imagined. He spoke particularly of the ruin in England's cities—Coventry and London. In Coventry, of 60,000 dwellings, 50,000 were completely destroyed in the German bombing raids. In the center of London, the world's largest metropolis, there is an entire square mile in which there is not a single building standing.

Mr. Fischer commented on the spirit and cooperation of English businessmen in carrying on their activities in spite of being bombed out of their places of business—some of them as many as seven times. He relayed Mr. Davis' admonition that we be not too critical of the English in their pursuit of the war.

Mr. Davis was in South America on December 7. Mr. Fischer told the high school pupils that Mr. Davis saw evidence of Axis influence in the South American countries. "But," he said, "there are two other countering influences, namely, that of the Catholic church and that of a growing appreciation of and cooperation with the United States. "Mr. Davis believes that regard for the United States in these countries is increasing daily."

"This week is perhaps the most momentous in the history of the world," Mr. Fischer reported Mr. Davis as saying. "Whether he meant China, Java or India's position in this conflict or a combination of the three he didn't say, but he repeated, 'This is the most momentous week in the history of the world.'" Mr. Fischer concluded.

Principal J. Wray Henry thanked Mr. Fischer for bringing this message to the high school and said, "It is only by hearing from people who have first-hand information that we know conditions as they really exist."

EDITORIAL LET US REMEMBER

"These clumsy feet still in the mire Go crushing blossoms without end. These hard, well-meaning hands we thrust Among the heartstrings of a friend. The ill-timed truth we might have kept Who knows how sharp it pierced and stung The word we had not sense to say Who knows how grandly it had rung."

—Edwin R. Sill.

Who among the 400 and more students of C.H.S. can not take a lesson from this portion of "The Poet's Prayer"? Unfortunately, it would be hard to find one person in the entire school who does not blunderingly crush the heartstrings of some friend quite often. Too many times each day we hurt our trust that we didn't have to say at all, thus piercing the heart of a dear one. And what is that thing that holds us back and seals our lips when we start to say a kind or gentle word?

Is it that we deliberately go about over the school trying to hurt people? Or are we thoughtless where others are concerned? For the most part, we all know the answer—thoughtlessness.

We are living in a day of speed. We rush to school, to classes, home to lunch, back to school and back home, always hurrying. Not because we need to, necessarily, but because everybody else hurries and it gets in our blood, so to speak. But how much time, how many hours out of our lifetime would it take for us to stop and think what we are saying, what we are doing to our friends?

All our lives we are going to want and need friends. Then, by all means, let's start now, in our comparatively carefree high school life, to make those friends and to keep them. Be a little more thoughtful and have a lot more friends. —Marvonne Henness.

C. H. S. GRADUATE ATTAINS HONORS

"Emily Gunning could be a heroine in a girls' series book." So writes a reporter in the New York Post of February 20. The article goes on to tell of Emily's activities on the campus of Barnard College in New York City where she is a senior.

This 1938 alumna of Circleville high school is the under-graduate president of the Student Council. She has signed up for an elementary meteorology course. Some of the topics she will study are weather conditions and predictions, uses of the compass, and winds. She is also taking a first aid course at Columbia and performs several duties during air raid drills in the Barnard dormitories.

In addition to her other activities Emily also serves on the Central Committee of Barnard and the University Defense Council, both of which formulate plans and policies for defense work," the New York paper further reports.

While in school here, Emily took part in all major activities. The Red and Black, in behalf of the student body and faculty, compliments you, Emily, on your attainments and this recognition which we believe you justly deserve.

Stephen Vincent Benet, in assembly March 6. The club decided this at its meeting Wednesday after school. Friday there was a short practice session.

STOOGES DECIDE ON SOCIAL ROOM FOR BIG EVENT

Stooze Club's annual dinner will be Thursday, March 5, in the high school social room.

At the club meeting at Carl Bach's last Thursday evening final arrangements were made and last minute committees were appointed.

President Frank Geib appointed several committees to work the evening of the dinner. Harry Clifton, Donald Goodchild and Howard Moore are in charge of setting the tables. David Betz, James Morrison, Howard Moore and Virgil Wolf compose the clean-up committee.

Robert Moon is in charge of ticket sales. Members of the "Circle" staff, Stooze Club and senior class are selling tickets which are 65 cents each.

Mrs. Frank Davis is in charge of the kitchen where she will be assisted by Stoozes and their mothers. The food committee and Mrs. Davis decided upon the following menu: baked ham, escaloped potatoes, baked apple, cole slaw, hot rolls, coffee, cookies and ice cream.

New shirts arrived for some of the members. Additional business discussed concerned the sale of paper for National Defense. Meeting next week will be at George Helwag's at 8:00.

CLUB MEMBERS ASSIST PASTOR

According to many persons present at last Sunday's services at the Presbyterian church, the Hi-Y boys assisted in a very impressive ceremony. This was the members' first attempt at anything of this kind. The names of boys who participated were printed in Monday's "Herald", along with their respective duties. Many of the "Hi-Y-ians" sang in the choir.

Since there was no school last Monday this week's Hi-Y meeting was omitted.

10 BOYS RECEIVE MERIT BADGES

Eleven boys from the upper six grades received United States government medals and bars as awards for selling Defense Stamps and Bonds. The winners who qualify as N. S. Defense Agents by virtue of being carrier boys for the Circleville Herald and the number of ten cent stamps each sold are:

Harry Briner, ninth grade—824; Robert Dumm, twelfth grade—712; James Eitel, ninth grade—1,448; Howard Gilt, tenth grade—1,777; James Hill, eighth grade—2,477; James Lytle, eighth grade—13,463; John Rhoads, seventh grade, 1,563; Wayne Stewart, ninth grade—302; Ernest Taylor, ninth grade—1,331; James Wells, ninth grade—4,945 and Robert Wolfe, eighth grade—227.

"The Herald newsboys' sale of Defense Stamps and Bonds has far exceeded the expectation of the Federal government," said Earl Smith chairman of the county committee, in his remarks Thursday morning when he appeared before the high school.

After sketching briefly the purpose of conducting the sale of stamps and bonds by the nation's newsboys and commending the newspapers for their cooperation Mr. Smith complimented the Herald carriers on their accomplishments in this undertaking.

Mr. Smith representing the Federal government and the Circleville Herald provided the awards.

INTRAMURAL B.B. SEASON CLOSES

Seventh and eighth grades won the final intramural championship by defeating the winners of the first round, Senior A, 46-22.

Before the grades team was eligible to play in the final game they were forced to play the Juniors for the championship of the second round. The grades won this game easily, 31-15.

In the final championship game, Leon Simms of the seventh and eighth grades teams scored more points than all of the Seniors' together.

JUNIOR GIRL RESERVES

Wanda Turner presented a program on Washington's birthday at this at its meeting Wednesday Thursday. There were no business discussions.

STARS SAY—

For Saturday, February 28

THERE IS every indication of continued progress, prosperity and opportunity. Contact with public, community or group political or diplomatic interests may enhance fortune and increase personal prestige and popularity. There is hint of over-generosity—excess spending for hospitality and pursuit of pleasure—which may invite openings for fraud, imposition, treachery and duplicity.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of excellent opportunity for expansion and accumulation in funds, position, prestige and popularity, this in the public eye or with major corporations, groups or influential bodies. The tendency to lavish display and over-generosity may invite imposition, intrigue, duplicity and hidden enemies.

A child born on this day will have excellent abilities with many qualities and characteristics fitting it for prominent place.

For Sunday, March 1

SUNDAY'S horoscope is a disconcerting one, with signs of sudden and devastating adventures, in which unforeseen factors are at work to undermine, baffle and confuse by their unpredictable quality. Strangers, queer circumstances and stubborn obstacles seem to incite to rash, impulsive and ungoverned conduct, which may make bad matters worse, with reactions on the nerves and health as well as possessions.

With calm, control and restraint
there may be some benefits.

If it is Your Birthday
Those whose birthday it is may run into a year calling for much cleverness, sagacity, self-control and poise, in order to cope with stubborn obstacles, or surprising visitations of a devastating and perplexing force. These seem to have strange factors and may best be met by similar tactics, but not with impetuosity or strife. Be calm.

A child born on this day will have a very impetuous reckless, erratic disposition, with many reversals or upsets, although its younger years may bring surprising good fortune.

City Meets Its Payroll, Leaves Utilities Unpaid

Money Is Available For Workers During 1942, Auditor Says

Saturday was pay day for city employees and it brought an announcement from Miss Lillian Young, city auditor, that city workers' pay checks would not be withheld, as it was previously rumored, and that the payroll could be met through 1942, providing other bills were left to accumulate.

The city payroll amounts to between $1,500 and $1,600 a month, Miss Young said, and funds to meet it are available until the next tax distribution. It is only through non-payment of back bills, however, Miss Young pointed out, that the payroll can be met. Outstanding obligations including former light and water bills total about $5,000.

Next tax distribution to the city will not be made for some time, Treasurer Robert Colville reported Saturday. Tax books on real estate will close next Saturday, he said. Total amount now paid in real estate taxes is $165,000. The figure will approximate $250,000 when the books are closed.

Any additional funds for the payment of city bills must come from council action. Council will meet in regular session next Wednesday night, and one of the issues which is expected to be discussed is that of refunding a portion of the city's $13,000 bonds falling due this year. Council has been reluctant to act on the refunding program, and while a majority of the council members favor a program which would turn on the street lights and bring added police protection to the city, some of them fear the consequence which would come with paying off the bonds under a war time economy.

Council previously turned down a resolution which would have refunded $10,000 worth of the bonds and the issue still remains in the hands of the finance committee with Frank Lynch as chairman.

Miss Young said that a representative from the Chamber of Commerce a short time ago had checked over the financial records at her office, hoping that the chamber might make recommendations to the council, but said that he made no report.

PARKING METER POSTS PLACED IN UPTOWN AREA

Workers from the service department continued with the installation of parking meters Saturday, despite unfavorable weather conditions.

Meter posts now have been partially installed on West Main and on North Court street. James Logan, meter company representative in charge of installation, said that as long as the weather did not get colder, the installation work would continue. A solution of calcium chloride has been mixed with the concrete to keep it from freezing, he said.

UNITED NATIONS WARSHIPS BREAK UP JAVA THRUST

was repulsed by machine gun fire and many were killed.

"Our troops also have inflicted serious losses on the enemy in Timor island."

The announcement was the first official indication of the outcome of the Java sea battle, which began last night and continued into this morning.

So far, there has been no attempt by the Japanese to land on Java island, despite reports that the Java sea battle was the prelude to an attempted invasion of Java.

During the battle, American planes and warships hammered furiously at the Japanese naval squadron, along with other United Nations forces.

As the opposing forces remained locked in a major engagement that began last night, a terse Dutch communique said the "action is developing."

Fortress Used

It was presumed that United States warships and dive-bombers were being supported in the battle by high-altitude "flying fortresses" bombers.

(A Japanese communique broadcast by the official Tokyo radio said a Japanese fleet "intercepted a combined allied fleet off the Netherlands East Indies last night and sank one cruiser and three destroyers." This Japanese announcement added that the "enemy is being pursued."

(There was absolutely no confirmation of the Japanese claim that four warships have been sunk in the battle. In the last few days the Japanese have been putting out wild victory claims—obviously in the hope of obtaining information.)

Saltcreek Valley

The Saltcreek P.T.A. met in regular session on Tuesday evening of this week a good attendance and a nice program was rendered.

Floyd Reid has purchased the Martha Stollard property on Elizabeth street, Tarleton.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Huffman, daughters Miriam and Joyce Anne, sons Reginald and Clyde of Portsmouth were last Sunday evening callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Mowery of this valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Hatt and family of Defiance were the last Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Reichelderfer.

Gail Wood of Pleasantville was the last Thursday visitor of his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Wood of this valley.

POPE PIUS III

LONDON, Feb. 28.—A Vichy radio report heard in London today said that Pope Pius XII was indisposed, but that there was "no cause for anxiety." (The pope had failed to appear at the Lenten masses in the Vatican, it was reported.)

RED CROSS TO BENEFIT

Money from the sale of fox pelts, secured from a fox drive being conducted Saturday near Amanda, will be donated to the Red Cross. The drive, an annual affair in the Amanda community has been postponed several times by inclement weather.

GERMAN PASTOR PRISONER AGAIN

Major Bach, a former German evangelist who commanded Axis forces in Halfaya on the Libyan-Egyptian border, is pictured above with an unidentified British tank corps officer after Bach had been captured. It was the major's second capture by the British. He was taken prisoner in World War I and spent three years in England where he learned the language. The German government has awarded Bach the Iron Cross for his gallant stand at Halfaya.

David S. Dunlap, who with Mrs. Dunlap has been spending the last two months in Miami, Fla., was a guest Saturday at a meeting at the Columbus hotel in that city arranged in honor of the grand exalted ruler of the Elks lodge.

Private Russell S. Marion of Ashville route 1 has been promoted to the rank of sergeant at Patterson field air depot at Fairfield, O.

Clyde Eugene Fausnaugh, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Fausnaugh of East Mound street, underwent a tonsil operation Saturday in Berger hospital.

Malcolm Shupe, Gas company employee injured Thursday in a truck-railroad accident West High street, is improving slowly in Berger hospital where his injuries are reported very painful but not critical.

Private Ned Plum of Circleville is reported making a good recovery after a major operation early this week in the military hospital at Indiantown Gap, Pa.

John Ammer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mose Ammer, Pleasant street, will go to Patterson field, near Dayton, next week to start defense work. He is an employee of the Circleville Lumber company.

George (Gee) Stoker, former Ashville resident and widely known Pickaway county sportsman, has been elected president of the newly-organized Plain City Businessmen's club.

ZIVIC BEATEN IN RING MATCH WITH YOUNGSTER

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—"It's a jinx joint," said Fritz Zivic through cut, bruised lips. "I never win here. I'd like to fight Tony again—somewhere else."

The 153rd professional fight of the former welterweight champion had just ended in disaster in the Chicago coliseum ring. In an adjoining dressing room the handlers of young Tony Motil, who only a year ago was fighting in Catholic youth organization bouts, were treating their protegee with new respect and jubilantly planning for things to come.

It was an old, old boxing story being re-enacted once again. On one hand, the fading veteran, blaming an unexpected defeat on a "jinx," refusing to face squarely the fact that he had slipped one more notch down the road to fistic oblivion—on the other, a rising youngster, flushed with the thrill of his first big triumph, filled with hope for future glory and money in the ring.

Zivic's story about the "jinx" ring was hardly convincing. True,

An actor by the name of Anthony Alston is said to have been the first actor to play in New York.

Fritz had encountered tough luck in the coliseum in particular and Chicago in general on several previous occasions during his career. But it was different those other times. He threw punches then—hundreds of them; threw them joyously, accurately, and lost more because of carelessness than anything else.

Last night, he tried to outpoint his opponent with the Gary steel mills with his left jab, exclusively. Gone were the furies of punches he formerly tossed. Gone was his jab-hock staccato which twice brought him victory over Henry Armstrong.

RAID ON FRENCH COASTAL REGION GREAT SUCCESS

"Other Units" Used, London Says Following Surprise Assault On Germans

not an attempt to open up a second front.

A full story of the daring exploit was promised later.

Exact site of the radio location post on the northern French coast was not revealed. But it was known that numerous posts of this kind have long been a thorn in the side of the British.

Aided in Ship Flight
It was believed probable that these posts considerably aided the recent passage of the Nazi warships Gneisenau, Scharnhorst and Prinz Eugen in their dash through the English channel and that they also may have betrayed the passage of British convoys and planes.

Today, however, it was understood from reliable sources that the British raid on the northern French coast was "very successful."

Britain's famed Commandos time and again have raided the French coast, terrorizing the Nazi occupational forces.

Virtually all of these attacks have gone unannounced, in line with British policy of keeping the Germans guessing and not telling them what hit them.

But the new attack, in scope and manner execution, was easily one of the most startling the British have carried out so far and it served as a minor preview of what the enemy can look for in the future.

As outlined in the terse admiralty communique, the British picked an important radio location post as their target for the attack.

Surprise Big Element

British Army, Navy and RAF forces, including the parachute troops, were combined to carry out the stunning assault, which depended on the element of surprise for much of its effectiveness.

Bombers roared over the radio location post and dropped the parachutists to the ground.

Swiftly and silently assembling their equipment, the "paratroops" began their deadly work of destruction.

According to the communique, they finished the task according to schedule.

But before they finished they were supported by regular infantry forces, evidently landed by sea.

Later, the attack a success, they were collected by naval craft and began the journey back to Britain.

DIES DEMANDS STEPS TO HALT JAPANESE PLAN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Following publication by his committee on un-American activities of a sensational "yellow paper" outlining Japanese espionage and war aims, Chairman Dies (D) Tex., today called on the government to launch a three-point program "to halt this Japanese Trojan horse in America."

At the same time, the Texan said the committee soon will make public a 500-page "black paper" on Nazi and Fascist espionage and sabotage, and also a supplement to the "yellow paper" giving evidence as to the location of Japanese oil and refueling bases in the Pacific area.

Specifically, Dies demanded that this government:

1. Remove "at once" all Japanese, aliens and natives, and all other "suspected individuals," from coastal and other strategic areas.
2. Drastically tighten present methods of investigation and supervision of these persons.
3. Remove all present and former members of or sympathizers with "any subversive organizations" from jobs in the government or in war industries.

In the 285-page "yellow paper" the committee said that as early as last August it had in its possession evidence that the Japanese planned to attack the United States, and that Pearl Harbor would be a major objective in that attack.

QUESTION: I have one flower bed that stays rather damp most of the time, even in summer. I would like to know what perennials, that do not spread too much, could be planted there. We also have room on our lawn for several of the flowering ornamental trees. Some of them would be planted where the ground is rather damp. Are there any of those that like a lot of moisture? I'm interested in the flowering cherry, flowering crab, flowering peach and the smoke tree. Are these trees hardy this far north? We are near Akron, Mrs. C. H. B. Clinton.

ANSWER: For a poorly drained flower bed I would particularly recommend Joe Pye weed, double daffodils, Camassia, queen of the prairie (Filipendula rubra), the wild senna (Cassia), march marigold, Japanese iris, Iris pseudacorus, cardinal flower, and Helianthus autumnalis. Incidentally, it would be a simple matter to put a tile drain underneath this bed to carry the water off to a lower level or into the storm sewer.

Although all the trees you mentioned with the possible exception of the flowering peach would be hardy in the vicinity of Akron, I would not recommend any of these for poorly drained soil. In fact, I know of no small flowering tree that I could recommend under such conditions.

QUESTION: Last fall we rooted weeping-willow branches in water, then planted them in crocks. They are growing and one of them is more than four feet long. Kindly tell me when and how they should be kept until spring. Should they be pruned and, if so, how? A. H. F. Piqua.

ANSWER: Since any growing plant would be severely injured by freezing weather or, if set out later, by frost, it is not safe to put your plants out of doors until late May when all danger of frost is past. In the meantime, if the growth becomes too straggly, it may be necessary to pinch them back to keep them more compact and sturdy.

A loss occasioned by damage to an automobile maintained for pleasure, where such damage results from the faulty driving of the taxpayer or other person operating the automobile, but is not due to the willful act or negligence of the taxpayer, is a deductible loss in the computation of net income. If damage to a taxpayer's automobile results from the faulty driving of the operator of an automobile with which the automobile of the taxpayer collides, the loss occasioned to the taxpayer by such damage is like wise deductible.

Fees paid for automobile inspection and automobile title registration of automobiles used for pleasure are not ordinarily allowable deductions.

NO. 42 Deduction For Tax On Motor Gas

If an automobile is used for both business and pleasure, those maintenance and operating expenses which constitute allowable deductions for Federal income tax purposes should be allocated to the two uses on the basis of the time the car is used for each. For example, if the total expense of operation and maintenance, plus depreciation, for the taxable year amounted to $800, and the car was used three-fourths of the time for business and the balance of the time for pleasure, the allowable deduction, for Federal income tax purposes, would be $600.

In general, taxes are deductible only by the person upon whom

No. 41 Automobile Deductions

With the number of automobile owners registering in the millions, the question of deductions for the cost of operation and maintenance of a motorcar frequently arises. The purchase price of an automobile, whether it is to be used for business or pleasure, cannot be deducted from gross income. If used for business, it is a capital expenditure; if used for pleasure, it is a personal expenditure—both deductions being expressly prohibited by the income tax law.

Several deductions, however, are allowable in connection with the cost of operation of an automobile used either for business or pleasure. If used exclusively for business, deductions may be taken for the cost of gasoline, oil, repairs, garage rent, amounts paid for insurance and other necessary operation and upkeep expenses, as well as damages paid for injury to another while the car was being used for business purposes and losses sustained by reason of damage to the car while being used for such purposes, provided such damages and losses are not covered by insurance or otherwise. Depreciation based on the cost of the car and its estimated useful life also is deductible.

Other deductible items, irrespective of whether the car is used for business or pleasure, are sums paid during the taxable year for personal property taxes and municipal taxes, interest on money borrowed for the purchase of a car, and losses by fire or theft, to the extent not compensated for by insurance or otherwise.

A loss occasioned by damage to an automobile maintained for pleasure, where such damage results from the faulty driving of the taxpayer or other person operating the automobile, but is not due to the willful act or negligence of the taxpayer, is a deductible loss in the computation of net income. If damage to a taxpayer's automobile results from the faulty driving of the operator of an automobile with which the automobile of the taxpayer collides, the loss occasioned to the taxpayer by such damage is like wise deductible.
